New Sales Director at BMT Reliability Consultants

BMT Reliability Consultants (BMT), a subsidiary of BMT Group Ltd, the leading international maritime design, engineering and risk management consultancy, is pleased to announce the appointment of Dan Oakley as Sales Director.

Holding a BSc in Mathematics and an MSc in Fluid Power Systems, Dan has over 20 years' experience specialising in systems engineering, primarily in the defence and aerospace domain. Previously employed as Business Manager for a global defence prime contractor, Dan was responsible for identifying, pursuing, negotiating, and winning a number of key strategic contracts for complex projects on overseas submarine programmes.

BMT Reliability Consultants delivers decision support solutions to the defence, maritime and transport industries. Dan's new role at BMT will see him take responsibility for developing customer relationships and supporting the company's continuing expansion and development.

Andrew Cooper, Managing Director at BMT Reliability Consultants comments: "We are excited to welcome Dan to the team. His business acumen and engineering experience will be invaluable as we seek to further improve the scope of services to our clients and reinforce our offering in the key markets we operate in."
