The global leader in door opening solutions

Have the kids lost the house keys ... again and now you are concerned that your home's security and family's safety have been compromised? Or have you ever come home, tired after fighting through the traffic, only to discover that you have left your house keys at the office?

Imagine you no longer have to worry about house keys or having to have spare keys made. Imagine your smart phone transforms into a key. Although this may sound a little like science fiction, this revolutionary technology is now available in South Africa. Brought to you by ASSA ABLOY, South Africa's leader in door opening solutions, ENTR is a smart locking system that is safe and easy to operate, ensuring the safety of your family by securing your home, and putting an end to lost or stolen keys.

By fitting an ENTR lock you will be able to enter your home by simply using a smart device including a smart phone, tablet or an I-Pad, biometrics, a remote or a code. Using an encrypted Bluetooth smart device and the ENTR app, you can seamlessly manage access to your home - create, duplicate, and self-manage virtual keys to lock and unlock doors, programme scheduled access authorisation and automatic locking once the door is closed. Your smart device will also notify you that the door is locked or unlocked so you will know at all times when someone who is entering or leaving your home, putting you in full control.

In addition to a smart device, you can also use a touchpad wall reader, a fingerprint wall reader or a remote control which enable you to code up to 20 family members and friends.

For total control and total security, you can change any regular door in your house to a super smart door. ENTR locks are suitable for most door types and sizes and can be easily installed on every door in the home. As the system is fitted to the inside of the door, it will not spoil your double volume or pivot front door's good looks so you can look cool and be smart at the same time!
