FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Sioux Responds to Customer Demand with Improved Performance in Updated Line of Engine-Driven Pressure Washers and Steam Cleaners

Sioux Corporation is proud to announce a new and improved line of engine-driven pressure washers and steam cleaners. This line of products was redesigned in response to customer feedback to include new features and product enhancements that will maintain Sioux's reputation for providing the most rugged and reliable industrial pressure washers and steam cleaners on the market.

Sioux's engine-driven line offers a high-efficiency heat exchanger design that minimizes operating costs and exceeds pressure washer emissions standards. High quality components, including the engine, pump, and heat exchangers, deliver unmatched reliability and longevity of the equipment. Redundant safety features protect the operator from injury and the major components of the machine from damage.

An all-new throttle control reduces the engine RPM when the user is not cleaning. This valuable feature extends the life of the engine and pump and reduces fuel consumption during operation, providing significant savings to users in total cost of ownership of the equipment. Also standard on Sioux engine-driven units is the steam option, which increases versatility and provides greater cleaning capabilities by allowing the user to thoroughly remove grease and oil with high-temperature steam (310°F- 320°F depending on the model).

Andrew Jorgensen, Sioux's Engine Driven Product Manager states, "These new engine-driven pressure washers are going to raise the bar in industries that require high durability and performance. You will easily see the difference in quality by looking at the Sioux equipment on display at the Sioux booth #243 at MINExpo 2016 in Las Vegas."

Sioux Corporation is the leading designer and manufacturer of application-specific, industrial pressure washing and steam cleaning systems for heavy industry such as mining, oil and gas drilling, manufacturing and concrete production.
