

Africa Energy Indaba Launches Marketplace

As a supporter of the Africa Energy Indaba and an important member of our community, you are invited to join Marketplace, our newly launched business matchmaking and networking platform for professionals. The platform is designed to help you meet, network and do deals with other valuable participants in our network. The Africa Energy Indaba brings together more than 1,500 energy business leaders every year that are unlocking the future of the African energy sector. By using our Marketplace platform you can book a meeting with members from our community and customise your on-site agenda. You can also use the system to submit questions to moderators or panelists, and submit your recommendations. By revealing the expertise and interests of all members of this strong African community, our Marketplace platform will help you to maximise your time on site at the Africa Energy Indaba. We want to make sure that you make the most of your time at the conference by allowing you to identify the participants, speakers, influencers and leaders you should definitely meet.
