

Decision Inc. mergers with Resolve Immix to form an Information Technology global force

Decision Inc. has announced its merger with South African-based software solutions provider Resolve Immix. The merger will integrate Immix's Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) and Customer Relations Management (CRM) experience alongside Decision Inc.'s Information Management and Advisory Services to provide clients with a true digital transformation partner. As a combined business client's will now have access to even more skills and insights across business intelligence, data, analytics, business planning and analytics, CRM, ERP and Digital Strategy. The merger also bolsters the significance of a Microsoft Gold Partner across a number of disciplines.

Imperial Logistics, the majority shareholder of Resolve Immix, has approved the sale of their shares to Decision Inc. While Decision Inc. and Immix provide solutions to an extensive marketplace, they both specialise in the mining, manufacturing, and supply chain industries with several pre-built offerings.

"Our combined footprint in the market is significant and we are looking forward to providing existing and new clients with a range of solutions that cater for unique requirements. With digital transformation becoming vital to business success, we are confident the merger will provide our clients with the skills they require to differentiate themselves in the marketplace." (Tony Bell, Director of sales at Decision Inc.)

"This merger combines two leading companies in their spheres. The short time that it has taken to conclude this transaction bears testament to the aligned vision and culture of the two companies. We look forward to having a significant impact both in South Africa and globally as we grow scale and reach." (Craig Swanepoel, Director of Resolve Immix)

"We pride ourselves on being able to offer our clients a superior basket of business solutions, technologies and consulting services. Most importantly it allows our staff to associate themselves with a winning brand and culture. We are very excited about the future." (Andre Pearce, MD of Resolve Immix).

"Decision Inc. and Immix are experts in their respective fields. Given the importance of data in the digital landscape, this acquisition will result in empowering decision-makers with more advanced real-time insights regarding their information. Further to this the investment in Immix allows us to provide an even greater Microsoft partner to the market." (Nick Bell, CEO of Decision Inc.)

"As a combined company with over 250 resources in South Africa and 25 within our Australian business we believe that this scale will make us even more significant in our client's business as we are able to invest deeper into our relationships with them. This transaction is a significant step in our global expansion strategy."
